

clusive, were then severally read, assented to, and with the originals thereof, as heretofore passed by both branches of the present legislature, were sent by the clerk to the senate for their concurrence therein.

The clerk of the senate returned the engrossed bills and resolutions of this house, as above described, with the originals thereof, as aforesaid, which were sent from this house to the senate, as above mentioned; severally endorsed, 'read and assented to by the senate.'

And the said clerk delivered the engrossed bills of the senate, as mentioned and designated in the above report, from number one hundred and eighty-one to number one hundred and eighty-eight, both inclusive; and from number one hundred and ninety eight to number two hundred and two, both inclusive; and also the engrossed resolutions of the senate, as described in said report, from number seventy-four to number seventy-nine, both inclusive, with the originals thereof, as heretofore passed by both branches of the present legislature; which said engrossed bills and resolutions, having been severally read and assented to by the senate, were also severally read and assented to by this house; and with the said originals, were then returned by the clerk to the senate.

The clerk of the senate delivered a resolution, originated in, and assented to, by that body, relating to the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company; which was read the first time;

And on motion by Mr. Lee, the said resolution was read the second time, by a special order obtained for the purpose conformably to the 38th rule of the house.

When after some debate that ensued thereon;

Mr. Smith of Worcester called for the previous question; and the call being sustained by a majority of the members present;

The said previous question was accordingly put in the form prescribed by the 23d rule of the house, viz. Shall the main question be now put?

And it being resolved in the affirmative;

The said main question was then put, viz. Will the house assent to the said resolution?

And it was determined in the negative.

On motion by Mr. Lee,

The yeas and nays, (being required by seven members,) were ordered and taken.

Those who voted in the Affirmative, are,
